

Pump with break tank

Pump technology

Reldair offers a various range of pumping systems with or without integrated break tank. An integrated break tank enables to re-use the water surplus and to lead it back to the break tank and to an integrated legionella protection.

The system is designed for your application, supplied with CE marking en free of legionella when leaving the factory.

